Hawaiian Electric Company.

The cleanest, brightest safest and really, in the long run, the cheapest and best light for use in the family residence, is the incandescent electric light. Safe; nothing could be safer. A few days ago a prominent gentleman of Honolulu came rushing down to the office of the Electric Company and said: “Give me figures for wiring my house, and I want it done at once; no more lamps for me. Last night a lamp tipped over and it came so near setting fire to the house and burning my children and I take no more risks.” This is the sentiment of quite a number in the past few weeks, who have ordered their houses fitted with the perfect light. Just think it over and make up your mind that you want the best and safest light; send for the Hawaiian Electric Company and tell them what you want. We have a complete stock of everything in this line and have just received a lot of the very latest designs in chandeliers.

HE TALKED OF BOATS

INTERESTING DISCOURSE ON THE MODELING OF YACHTS.

Points to Be Studied—Center of Gravity and Lines—Masts and Sails—The Lesson Was Illustrated.

Mr. J. A. Dower had a large and deeply interested class of lads at the Palama chapel Thursday evening on the occasion of his lecture on boat modeling and yacht building. A number of old boatmen were also present and were well entertained by the lecture.

Mr. Dower's first point was the general shape of a boat, and how to get the center of gravity in the right place and the form of the model. The second point was how to get the correct area of sail to the gravity. Third, length of masts and sail area for any given model. Fourth, how to make correct models, so as to be precisely the same on both sides.

From this point he described in detail the process of making correct models. “There is no royal road to model making,” said he. “It is a difficult business. A boy with fine ideas can make a model to beat those of experienced men.” A model with fine lines was shown and all its different parts described. The relation of gravity and sail force was clearly brought.

The last feature of a lecture was trimming a yacht. The model was rigged and unrigged in the presence of the class, and the speaker explained how to make these processes a pleasure instead of hard work. After the lecture a number of those present took occasion to thank Mr. Dower for the entertainment and valuable instruction they had received.

THE ELECTION HERE.

The opening registration day at Thurman's store resulted in the booking of fifty Honolulu residents up to noon today. Some of the foremost residents of the city have signed and met all the requirements necessary to entitle them to a vote for their choice for the presidency of the United States. McKinley men, so far, seem to be plentiful, but Bryan has a fair representation in today's list. By this evening it is believed that fully 100 will have registered. The registration book will be kept open until Monday evening. The election will occur Tuesday.

STANDING BY THEIR RIGHTS.

No Train Too Good to Be Popped Could Come to That Town.

There was a call for a mass meeting of citizens to take action regarding a new railroad, and it was on the bills that Colonel Wheaton would address the meeting. There was a committee at the depot to meet him, and when he had been received the speaker of the committee led off with:

“See yere, kumel, the boys would like to know jest what sort of tack ye ar goin to take tonight, so as not to do on unnecessary shootin. Ar' ye fur lickin or again it?”

“Well, I take a nip when I want it,” replied the colonel.

“How about poker?”

“I play poker now and then.”

“Got anythin agin our hanging a man when he 'pears to need hangin?”

“No, nothing.”

“If a white man kills an Injun ar' ye going to stand by him?”

“I always have.”

“Ar' ye a friend of the squint eyed Chinymen?”

“No, I am in favor of sending him home.”

“That's all right, kumel—all right,” said the man, as he extended his hand for a shake, “but about this yere railroad. Is she goin to riz the price of whisky?”

“Oh, no. It will make whisky cheaper.”

“Kin we shoot and fight and hev jest as good times?”

“You can. The railroad won't curtail any of your privileges.”

“And the boys can stand in line, each with two guns in his hands, and pop over the durned conductor, engineer and passengers as the trains come in?” continued the man in persuasive tones.

“Well, I—I—hardly think they will be allowed to do that,” stammered the colonel.

“But why not?”

“Well, you see, human life—”

“Stop right thar,” interrupted the man. “If thar's ary thing cumin 'long yere too good to be popped at, this yere crowd is goin to stand on its right to prevent! Thar' won't be no meetin to-night, and fur all the speakin ye'll do ye may go off'n git drunk!”

The meeting was adjourned, the colonel left by the next train and the railroad was never built.—New York Sunday World.

No Escape.

A youngster asleep at a circus was enough to pique any man's curiosity, and finally the proprietor of the show said to the boy:

“I say, my little man, why do you always go to sleep when you come here?”

“Because I can't keep awake,” was the answer. “It's a beastly bore to see them doing the same thing every night.”

“Then why do you come?”

“Why, I can't help it. I have to come. I've got a season ticket.”

They All

“There are fads in medicine as well as in other things,” said a busy druggist, “but the most remarkable thing about Hood's Sarsaparilla is that customers who try other remedies all come back to Hood's, and this is why the enormous sales of this medicine keep up while others and in a short time go out of sight entirely, to be heard from no more.”

“Why is it?” “O, simply because Hood's Sarsaparilla has more real curative merit than any medicine I ever sold.”

This is of daily occurrence in almost every drug store. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the standard remedy which has cured more sickness, relieved more distress and made more happiness by bringing people
